O be famous is not necessarily to be great, and to be great is not necessarily to be famous. In the vernacular, to be famous is to "make a hit." The next question to be decided by the authorities, self-appointed or otherwise, is whether the fame is deserved. That invariably starts an argument. No fame was ever unanimous.

Fame, therefore, can be taken only at its face value. Just as soon as we attempt to subject it to the critical analysis of different viewpoints, we are embarked on the stormy sea of disputation without compass or quadrant, without destination or starting-point, doomed forever; like the Wandering Jew, to float on and on Buffeted thus aimlessly is the shade of Poe. In the ordinary acceptation of the term, he was and is famous, and the effort of his detractors to make out otherwise only serves to increase his fame. Whether he is justly or deservedly famous or not, is quite another question, a question which is both irrelevant and indeterminate. It is irrelevant because fame is objective rather than subjective. If it is to be qualified, it takes its quality from the contemplating public and not from the man under consideration, bringing us to social introspection and there we stick until some arbitrator plenipotentiary leads us out. Hence the question is also indeter ninate, since arbitrators plenipotentizry disappeared with the "divine right" bubble.

The matter of Poe's going into the Hall of Fame depends and should depend upon those having the Hall of Fame in charge, whether they be Anthony Comstocks, Battery Dans, John L. Sullivans, or other gentlemen who may have happened to become famous in their chosen sphere. Others should keen hands off.

/ Whatever the outcome, the Hall of Fame merely reflects the opinion of those who have it in charge. No matter how much public discussion there may be, no matter how much outsiders may engage in controversies in which they have none but a bellicose interest, the governors will still use their own judgment, and we will be supposed to infer that their selections were deservedly famous. There is no danger of any one's deliberately starting a Hall of Unjust Fame.

The only other way would be to decide it by referendum. If we should vote him in and his fame was still undeserved, then, of course, it would prove that we were a had lot.-From Lippincott's Magazine.

anger, when a moment or two of firm self-control would have carried him safely past the crisis. He rather prided himself upon his "quick temper," so unruly, so easily roused, and so hard soothed. Then came the climax, when one day he flew into a passion, and almost before he realized it, he had committed a crime which by a narrow margin escaped being murder. His neighbor was a quiet, pleasant young fellow whom everybody liked and respected. He was never even suspected of owning the naturally quick temper which he kept as sternly under control. He made it a point to be master, and he succeeded. When the first young man went to prison for his attempt upon the life of another, the second accepted a position of trust, of honor, of large responsibility, where his self-control and calm poise of spirit amid vexations was invaluable to himself and his employers.

Neither of the young men would have believed, years before, that they were in training then for the positions each came to occupy. Yet so it was in truth; for had not things gone before which fitted the one for honor, the other for crime and disgrace, the results would not have been what they were. an honomos a willain all at once." WASHINGTON NOTES

Unquestionably the session Wednesday was the busiest of the three weeks the bill has been in conference. Dozens of Senators sought audiences and were received by the Senate members of the House, including the committee representing the anti-free raw material insurgents. In the cortidors swarmed agents of special interests, who seemed to realize that the crucial period of the conference and arrived.

Senators Elkins and Scott, of West Virginia, and Clark, of Wyoming, enleavored to get the conferees to make the rate of 45 cents a ton on toal apply to the short ton, which, it is said, would make a difference of about 5 cents a ton and would operate to advance the rate to the equivalent of 50 cents. The Senators interested in getting all the protection possible for coal were not successful. Just before the close of the session the rate on print paper was fixed at $3.75 a ton. This is only 25 cents less than the Senate rate, and $1.75 more than the House rate.

Entering upon the last stages of its consideration by Congress, the tariff bill, as reported by the conferees, was submitted Friday to the House by the compact and Esther Stromberg, Chairman Payne and ordered printed in The Congressional Record.

Three hundred and fifty of the 390 members were in their seats when Chairman Payne passed up to the Speaker's desk the bulky document which had occupied the attention of Congress for four and a half months. and then the Republicans broke out into loud applause.

President Taft expressed himself as immensely pleased with the tariff bill as it was finally agreed to by the conferees last evening. It is several of his callers that it would be the greatest miracle of the age if a tariff bill could be designed that would please everybody.

The President declared that there were a great many things about the bill that he was delighted to have had a part in, and that he would be equally delighted to sign and defend the measure in its finished state.

Without attempting to go into detail the President declared that in a great many ways the new tariff law and H. Van Vleet, secretary and Nulty put up a bold front and dewill be a marked improvement over the Dingley act.

The House Saturday night adopted the conference report on the tariff bill, 195 to 183. The Republicans shrieked in their delight over the final outcome, and Chairman Parne was the central figure of an admiring and Twenty Republicans voted against post-office :--

The Fiend is petticoated, rarely trousered, who holds you up until you are ready to hurl anathemas upon the very Inventor. Where is the specialist who will conquer this disease of the wire-disease that is working such wholesale havoc, rifling husbandly purselets, stealing Time bedily, breaking the needed rest of invalids without a qualm, and robbing the "party" at the other end of all surety of peace? For all else seem we to have found a quietus, but for the "caller up" at any old time or place, no remedy seems forthcoming.

That the telephone has blessed many a man, saved many lives, and helped pile up fortunes, is true; but has it not cursed some women, ruined more lives, and hastened domestic misfortune? It has. Has it not become the favorite pastime of the woman with nothing to do? It has. Does it not accelerate gossip? Aid the flirt and the wayward, constantly? It does, Selfindulgent women waste their husbands' money by ordering food over the too handy telephone, rather than bother to dress for the street, thereby losing both their wholesome morning exercise and their chance thriftily to secure the best there is for the price at market or at stores from which the family larder is supplied. "I have just been looking over the report," interposed Mr. Hill, of Connecticut, "and I find most of the reductions of the steel schedule have brought the duties below the rates of the Wilson bill."

"Since the Wilson bill was pass-
